The road we travel is equal in importance to the destination we seek. There are no shortcuts. When it comes to truth and reconciliation, we are all forced to go the distance. Senator Murray Sinclair, Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada

This memorial register is the result of over a decade of work by countless people. For the first edition of the memorial register book, we sought the advice, guidance and blessing of Elders, Survivors and Knowledge Keepers at a national gathering held at Turtle Lodge in Sagkeeng First Nation, Manitoba.

Following the direction provided at the National Gathering of Elders, this second edition is being provided to assist and enable further ceremonies in traditional territories. Ceremonies to honour the children who never returned home from the schools will always remain essential.

Introduction
This memorial register is the result of over a decade of work by countless people. This is the second edition of the Memorial Register book. Survivors and Indigenous communities provided updates, additions and changes to this book from December 1, 2019, to September 30, 2020.

The first edition of the memorial register book sought advice, guidance and blessing from Elders, Survivors and Knowledge Keepers at a national gathering held at Turtle Lodge in Sagkeeng First Nation, Manitoba. Songs were sung and ceremony conducted to help the children listed within this register find their way home. The door is now open. The Elders emphasized the importance of working with ceremonial peoples across the many Indigenous nations of this land. They emphasized that all nations, customs and traditions must be respected in honouring these children.

Ceremonies to honor the children who never returned home from the residential schools will always remain essential. This second edition of the memorial register book represents another starting place on our collective journey of honoring and remembering the children lost to the residential schools. Following the direction provided at the National Gathering of Elders, this second edition is being provided to assist and enable further ceremonies in traditional territories.

By the width and the breadth of the universe, you are thought of.

By the width and the breadth of the universe, you are loved.

The following students passed away or went missing from a school that has not yet been identified. Further research will help determine these schools.
There are additional names of children waiting to be found. The National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation is ready to receive additional information about any student believed or known to have gone missing at a residential school or as a result of their time at a residential school. We will continue to update the memorial register as additional children are found.

The updated memorial register can be found at nctr.ca under Memorial. The printed version of the memorial register will be updated annually. It will include updates up to September 30th of each year and the book will be printed and available in November of that year.

We encourage those with additional information to contact the NCTR to provide updates and changes to the memorial register. Please contact us to receive the newest edition of the memorial register book. The memorial register book is free to family members of the children who never returned home. This is an ongoing process and we will only get it right with the help of Survivors and their communities. Together we will ensure that no child is forgotten.

At the closing ceremonies of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in 2015, Commissioner Wilson placed the chichigun in the TRC’s ceremonial Bentwood Box as a sacred object, entrusting it to the National Centre for Truth and Reconciliation to be displayed prominently “as a reminder that we must continue our efforts to find the ones who are still missing … so that their lives and their names may be spoken with love and remembrance.”

Previous pages in this book identify thousands of children. This page solemnly recognizes over 1,600 additional students who are identified as deceased within our records … and whose names are not yet known.

We continue to honour and remember all of these children. They are in our hearts, minds and spirits through all that we do.
